What makes this program different?

Talented Instructors:

You will be taught by talented educational leaders including administrators from the TEC member districts.

Coaching:

You will be assigned an experienced school administrator as a coach for the duration of the program. This coach will provide specific advice and assistance as you matriculate through the program.

Field-based Learning:

At the end of a defined sequence of courses, the program requires practice in four areas: Instructional leadership, family and community engagement, professional culture, and management & operations.

If you have questions prior to the information session, contact:

Erik Erickson, Director of Innovative Learning Services (eerickson@tec-coop.org)

*Offered in partnership with TEC in service of its member districts.
You do not need to be employed in a TEC member district to apply to this program.*
